Hydrate of Chloral and Dies.

quest on the body of Mr. A. J. Case, who was found dond in his bed about ten minutes beore 2 o'clock, at the Gibson House, where ne was stopping. The deceased was occupied as traveling salesman for the firm of Hunt, Holoroke & Barber, of Hartford, Conn., where he esides, and has a wife and four children. The circumstances connected with his death are rather singular, and strongly point to suicide. For the past ten days he had been failing in his eyesight, and lir. Williams, consist, informed him that he might lose it entirely. He had been subject to diseases of the eye for several years past.

Lust night about 8 o'clock he went up to his room under the influence of liquor, and in a conversation with Mr. J. V. DeLong, a traveling salesman of Lancaster, O., he stated that if he had a pistol he feit strongly tempted it kill himself, as he would rather be dead than blind. Subsequently he went to the drug stase of G. E. Callender, and presented a prescription for a solution of hydrate of chloral (the grains) and water (3 oz.), and remarked the would like to have double that strength.

The solution, however, was made as the prescription called for. Shortly before two o'clock this morning, while Mr. De Loog was out the deceased took the whole of the medicine, about sixteen teaspoonsful, and died as hour and a half afterward, about two o'clock. Under ordinary circumstances, a teaspoonful is a sufficient dose. Dr. Danniridge was called in the meantime, who found him in an unconscious and pulseless condition, suffering severe pairs in the stomach and subject to convulsions.

After several witnesses had been called, whose teatimony, however, clicited nothing more than has already been mentioned the jury returned a verdick that the deceased came to his death from suickie by an overdose of hydrate of chloral while laboring under a fit of despondency caused by the approaching loss of his eyesight.

tional is deeply rooted in the human breast, and plays of this school exert a wonderful in fluence over the masses. "Across the Contifluence over the masses. "Across the Continent," though played in this city scores at times, still continues to draw, and Mr. Oliver Doud Byron as the "Ferrat" grows more popular with each repetition. Wood's Theater more has evening was completely filled by me cathusiastic andience. Mr. Byron was as usual exceedingly good, as one might suppose, from his wide-spread reputation in this character. "Knuckie-Bone Johnny" helped both to emitten the play and add to Mr. alarble's reputation as an excellent comedian. The other characters were as well rendered as one could expect, considering the nature of the parta "Across the Continent" for the matince to-day at 2 o'cl lek.

Haverly's Troupe of celebrated Ministrate open at this house Monday evening with cattrely new attractions.

The Grand Opera-House.—Last night was the occasion of Miss Gray's benefit, and a botter play, both as regards the play fiself and its restment at the hands of the actors, has not been seen at the Grand for many a day. The Grand of the actors, has not been seen at the Grand for many a day. The Grand was honored upon several occasions by what was evidently conscientious applanae, a thing of great carriy with movers undiscorn Wholesale praise, even though honest, constitute does more harm than good, but still use can not refrain from speaking of the excellent acting of Messas. Roche and Fiske. Their coaracters, though diametrically opposed, each in its turn seemed to cannat the andience—the one impressing them with his deep grief, the other amusing their with his quaint trobery. The audience fluctuated between two opinions, the actor present for the time being the star. It is a long time since Cincinnati has seen such acting from a stock company, and the matince to-day Miss Gray will appear a "Lady Fiora Stanbope" in "Edge Pools" The Vokey Family next week.

Mozart Hall.—The Hibernion & Morrie Company drew suite a roog audience
